Abstract: In focusing on Local Economic Development (LED) and industrial cluster development, this article highlights three main themes : (1) The understanding of industrial cluster and industrial district ; (2) Industrial district development in the Local Economic Development context ; and (3) Collective Efficiency achievement as a realistic action in implementing Local Economic Development in Industrial Cluster . It concludes that in local economic development context several important points have to be consider to push the collective efficiency development in industrial cluster. They are the need of optimally functional organisation in every part of production system, the need of well-built networking (including the emphasize of social capital accumulation), access to the wide range market, and the need of the entrepreneurship spirit.
