

BOOK REVIEW OF THE FAULT IN OUR STARS

WRITTEN BY JOHN GREEN

A FINAL PROJECT

In Partial Fulfillment of the Requirement
For S-1 Degree in American Cultural Studies
In English Department, Faculty of Humanities
Diponegoro University

Submitted by:

Reza Gustav Pradana

13020110141013

FACULTY OF HUMANITIES

DIPONEGORO UNIVERSITY

SEMARANG

2016

PRONOUNCEMENT

The writer states truthfully that this project is compiled by himself without taking the results from any other research in any university, in S-1, S-2, and S-3 degree and in diploma. In addition, the writer ascertains that he did not take the material from other publications or someone's work except for the references mentioned.

Semarang, 11 November 2016

Reza Gustav Pradana

VALIDATION

Approved by

Strata 1 Final Project Examination Committee

Faculty of Humanities Diponegoro University

On May 2017

Chair Person

First Member

Dra. Christine Resnitriwati, M.Hum

Arya Jati, S.S, M.A

NIP. 195602161983032001

NIP. 197802282005011001

Second Member

Third Member

AridoLaksono, S.S, M. Hum

Prihantoro, S.S, M.A

NIP. 197507111999031002

NIP. 198306292006041002

MOTTO AND DEDICATION

Hard work betrays none, but dreams betray many.

(Hachiman Hikigaya)

It is the time you have wasted for your rose that makes your rose so important.

(Antoine de Saint-Exupéry)

Time you enjoy wasting, was not wasted.

(John Lennon)

This thesis is dedicated to the writer's beloved big family

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Praise be to the Almighty who has given the strength, blessing and true spirit until the very last minute during hiscollegeso he was be able to finish this final project. On this occasion, the writer would like to thank all the people who helped the writer completing his college and especially extends his sincere gratitude to the following persons:

1. Dr. Redyanto M. Noor, M.Hum as the dean of Faculty of Humanities, Diponegoro University;
2. Dr. AgusSubiyanto, M.A as the head of the English Department, Faculty of Humanities, Diponegoro University who also gave his support to the writer to finish this final project;
3. RetnoWulandari, S.S, M.Hum, the writer's academic supervisor who has given her time and guidance;
4. All lecturers of Faculty of Humanities, especially those in English Department;
5. All of the whole academic staff in Diponegoro University;
6. His parents, Mr. Ir. WaspodoYuliArtono and Mrs. RennySwalanti, and his younger brother and sister, Rega Gustav Henrizal and ReviMaulidaAzzara, who give their supports;
7. His Grandparents, H. Nursahit and Hj. Kartiniwho gave their support and always help the writer in any conditions. They are the writer's survivors;

8. The both of the writer's aunts, KatrinEstiana and Pudi Riana. To give the writer supports and motivations;
9. The writer's big family, RosyadFadhilNaufal, Hannie, RayhanDaffa and Nurhafida, both of the writer's uncles, Herdin andAgusAbdurrochim, aunt SantiArdatifor giving the spirits;
10. The writer's girlfriend, Anna Caesaria N.M., S.Psi who always give the encouragement;
11. All his friends in English Department, Diponegoro University, especially class of 2010 in particular, Memorial, Aditya, Gunawan, Danang, Damar, Haqi, Najibah, Firman, Ravi, Riko, Ginanjar and Bonifacius;
12. Moreover, the rest of the writer's friends in class of 2010, fellow students and from some classes of English Department, from other faculties, playgroups and all related people that make the writer succeed in finishing this final project;

The writer realizes that this final project is still far from being perfect. He would be glad to receive any constructive criticisms and suggestions to help him does a better writing in the future. Still, he hopes that this final project would be useful for the readers and human lives.

Semarang, November 11th, 2016

Reza Gustav Pradana

TABLE OF CONTENT

TITLE	i
PRONOUNCEMENT.....	ii
APPROVAL	iii
VALIDATION.....	iv
MOTTO AND DEDICATION	v
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	vi
TABLE OF CONTENT.....	ix
1. INTRODUCTION	1
2. SUMMARY OF THE NOVEL.....	3
3. REVIEW OF THE BOOK.....	6
4. CONCLUSION.....	12
REFERENCES	14

1. Introduction

Many types of literature work that could be a lesson in human lives. One of them is a novel with a beautiful love story. People like to read it with a reason to keep them pleased especially a love story with a good or beautiful ending. There are a lot of happiness, excitement and promises of forever. But The Fault in Our Stars written by John Green contains an unusual love story. This novel takes the love story concerning teenage suffering from cancer. Green tries to turn down the stereotype that battling cancer is an impressive, heroic and noble act. The novel shows the facts and realities of actual cancer patients. Instead of beauty that will be shown, but the grief and pain.

The Fault in Our Stars shows a situation of two teenagers who fall in love but their relationship is a quite complicated by their medical condition called cancer. Hazel Graze, a sweet sixteen-year-old girl, suffering from thyroid cancer. The thyroid has spread to her lungs since she was a kid. She eventually meets the boy Augustus Waters in a support group for patient with cancer. Augustus Waters, a handsome boy who is safe from cancer and lost his leg has got Hazel's attention.

The writer is interested to review the novel The Fault in Our Stars because the background of the story affirms on the suffering as the important points. The Fault in Our Stars as The New York Times Bestselling Novel must have something important point that attracts the readers to read it. The writer loves The Fault in Our Stars because this novel has a lot of good things that could be taken. Although the story makes the readers little depressed, but it also gives the readers a look at peace, affection, joy, patience and kindness. The writer hopes that the novel could be something interesting to discuss in this paper.

The novel The Fault in Our Stars was written by John Green. He is an author who has written many novels and The Fault in Our Stars is one of the best. He was born on August, 24 in Indianapolis and then grew up in Michigan, Florida, temporary in Birmingham, Alabama and Orlando. Nowadays, Green lives in Indianapolis and writes The Fault in Our Stars there. His education was in Lake Highland Preparatory School in Orlando, then in Alabama he attended Indian Springs School. His double major English and Religious Study (Islam) were from Kenyon College in Ohio. John Green was receiver of the Michael L. Printz Award in 2006, an Edgar Award winner in 2009, and be a finalist for the Los Angeles Times Book Prize. Besides an author, Green is also a vlogger. Vlogger is people who does video-blogging and post their video in video-sharing website such as YouTube. In 2007, Green and his brother Hank started to upload their video to their YouTube channel which called vlogbrothers. Their channel is one of the most popular on YouTube. Green uses Twitter too, he is an active Twitter user who has more than 3 million followers. Over all, he could be famous for his genius in novel-writing. (Green, John; 2016; About John Green; <http://www.johngreenbooks.com/bio/>; Accessed: 27 June 2016)

2. Summary of the Book

The beginning of the novel is when the main character Hazel Grace Lancaster, sixteen-year-old girl reluctantly attends a group support of cancer patients' in Indianapolis. Because of her cancer, she wears a tank with portable oxygen to help her breath. In one of the activities of the support group, Hazel meets a handsome teenage boy. She eventually knows that his name is Augustus Waters. Augustus is there to help and assist his friend Isaac that had a tumor in his left eye. After the meeting, Augustus began to notice and eventually invites Hazel to talk a little bit of story with their cancer. Hazel tells Augustus that she has thyroid cancer since she was children. The thyroid has spread to her lungs. Augustus tells Hazel that he had cancer too, called osteosarcoma, but he did leg amputation and now he is free from cancer.

Hazel and Augustus talk about cancer; Hazel shows the greatness of An Imperial Affliction to Augustus. An Imperial Affliction is a novel that matches herself relatively. The novel tells the story about a girl with cancer. An Imperial Affliction is the only book Hazel reads, because it contains cancer and it's very match with her life. She tells Augustus that the novel has an ambiguous ending. She curious about Peter Van Houten, the author of the novel. Van Houten moved to Amsterdam after the novel An Imperial Affliction was released. No one knows him until now. Then Augustus writes a letter with Hazel and set a list of questions to Van Houten. Their hope is to find out the novel's ambiguous ending. Finally, Van Houten responses their letter, he said that he could answer their questions personally. Houten invites Hazel and Augustus if they are ever in Amsterdam.

Hazel wants to go, how much she wanted to go to meet Peter Van Houten, but she knows it is not possible for her.

Eventually, Augustus wants to talk Hazel when they are at a picnic. He would give her a surprise. Suddenly, he said that he wants to take Hazel to Amsterdam for her wish to meet Van Houten. Hazel feels happy. She loves him very much, but when she began love him, she realizes that it will hurt him. Because she knows she would die anytime and anywhere. In the time of her dilemma over what to do about Augustus, Hazel suffers a serious situation. Suddenly her lungs fill with fluid. Hazel goes to the ICU. Since then, Augustus is always waiting Hazel in the hospital's waiting room. After Hazel healed, Augustus tells her that Houten sent them the last letter. The letter is more personal. When Hazel knows it, she could not resist her desire to see Houten. The problem is her team of doctors and parents do not think Hazel is fit enough to go to Amsterdam.

With a long discussion with the team of doctors, finally Hazel and Augustus could meet Van Houten and Lidewij (Houten's assistant). They make a plan to go to Amsterdam as soon as possible. They are very happy when they landed in Amsterdam. But when they see Houten, instead of a kind-hearted man, he is a drinker who often says rude to Hazel, and even worse, he talks he cannot answer any of Hazel's questions about the novel's ambiguous ending. They leave Van Houten's with disenchantment. After this situation, Augustus wants to tell something to Hazel, when Hazel suffers the serious situation and goes to ICU, he said that he did a body scan with his parents. The body scan revealed his cancer has returned. Indeed, Augustus's parents does not allow him to go to Amsterdam.

But it was too late. Now, the cancer has spread in his body. They return to Indianapolis. Since then, Augustus's condition worsens quickly.

The novel shows the plot-twist in the ending of story, Augustus dies eight days later. At the funeral, Hazel meets Van Houten who reveals the ending of An Imperial Affliction and explain the fate of the characters to Hazel, but Hazel refuses, she does not want to heard any words from Houten again. But Houten disclose the reason why he did not want to talk last time, the main character of An Imperial Affliction was his own daughter who had died of cancer as a child. So, the main character of An Imperial Affliction is the image or a dream of Houten to see the teenage form of his daughter who only can be poured into a novel. A few days after the death of Augustus, Isaac tells Hazel that there was Augustus's words for hazel in his house. Eventually Hazel knows that Augustus sent the letter to Van Houten containing the sequel of An Imperial Affliction. Lidewij asks Van Houten to read the letters and then sends them to Hazel. The ending of the novel is Hazel reads the Augustus's words to Houten about her.

3. Review of the Book

There are several points that the writer found as the strengths of The Fault in Our Stars included analysis of theme, characters/characterization, symbols and setting of place that related with the previous point theme and symbol. All of that is a very important thing for the story to be a strength. The first strength is theme of story. Theme will show what kind of a novel the reader will read,

...tema adalah gagasan (makna) dasar umum yang menopang sebuah karya sastra sebagai struktur semantis dan bersifat abstrak yang secara berulang-ulang dimunculkan lewat motif-motif dan biasanya dilakukan secara implisit. (Nurgiyantoro, 2014:115).

It means, theme is a general basic idea (meaning) that sustains a literary work as a semantic structure and abstract repeatedly raised through motives and it is usually done implicitly. Although this novel tells about cancer, but there is an idea that is repeatedly raised implicitly by its characters, namely the impact of cancer itself.

The writer found that suffering could be the theme for the novel The Fault in Our Stars. Suffering is the impact of cancer. Besides Hazel's physical pain, she has an emotional pain her life, too. Hazel worries about making this suffering and pain on people when she dies, such as Augustus, her friends and family. She compares herself to a grenade. Sometimes could explodes and injures everyone around her. It could be seen in the following line, when Hazel's parents asked her to making friends and going on dates:

I'm like. Like. I'm like a grenade, Mom. I'm a grenade and at some point I'm going to blow up and I would like to minimize the casualties, okay? (Green, 2012:99), and

I just want to stay away from people and reads books and think and be with you guys because there's nothing I can do about hurting you; you're too invested, so just please let me do that, okay? I'm not depressed. I don't need to get out more. And I can't be a regular teenager, because I'm a grenade. (Green, 2012:99)

It is clear that her suffering is not only pain of cancer, but the thought of people around her would know that she would die. Hazel cannot imagine that. She cannot do a lot of things with people she loved. She confined herself. Suffering increasingly rises when she finds her love named Augustus. Loving him means doing things together, closer to each other, and even kissing and love is supposed to make her happy, but exactly she is sad. It could be seen in the following line when Hazel decides to text Augustus:

Hi, so okay, I don't know if you'll understand this but I can't kiss you or anything. Not that you'd necessarily want to, but I can't. When I try to look at you like that, all I see is what I'm going to put you through. Maybe that doesn't make sense to you. Anyway, sorry. (Green, 2012:101)

Hazel feels that to be with Augustus is to hurt-inevitably. She thinks she is committing an act of violence against him. By the end of story, Hazel turned out to be the victim of the suffering that he feared, Augustus begin to weaken and eventually die from his cancer. In fact, he does not tell hazel that the disease will recur because it coincides with their departure for the Netherlands, but in the end he sighed in pain.

I knew why he hadn't said anything, of course: the same reason I hadn't wanted him to see me in the ICU. I couldn't be mad at him for even moment, and only know that I loved a grenade did I understand the foolishness of trying to save others from my own impending fragmentation: I couldn't unlove Augustus Waters. And I didn't want to. (Green, 2012:214)

Hazel consciously keeps the distance from people and everyone that could be her friends, Hazel does not want to make them hurt by her when she dies. But, she meets Augustus Waters. She falls in love with him. It is clear that his suffering is not only to survive the pain of cancer, but also to see the beloved people will die of cancer. So, we could see that this is a story with many kinds of suffering as a main theme.

The second strength is characters and characterization. In common literary work, character is the one that experiences the story. It makes people that are involved in the story have their own personalities and characteristics. According to Orson Scott Card, "Characters are fictitious people, human being that are made up like real people, whole and alive, believable and worth caring about." (1988: 4). Character is human being that are made up like real people. It means that character experiences many events like real people do. The main character is Hazel Grace Lancaster. She is the novel's narrator. She is sixteen-year-old protagonist. She has thyroid cancer since she was children. The thyroid has spread to her lungs. She keeps everyone at a distance. Hazel knows that her death would hurt them in the end. Hazel is smart, very thoughtful and considerate about her actions. She does not want the world to look her. She wants to walk alone and find peace alone. She wants to reduce losses caused by her existence to people around her. This point of view on life is different from Augustus's. She thinks that there are no people to remember that she ever existed so as her parents.

There will be no one left to remember Aristotle or Cleopatra, let alone you. Everything that we did and built and wrote and thought and discovered will be forgotten and all of this...will have been for naught. (Green, 2012:13)

Words above shows that Hazel is a wise and smart girl, but she had given up her life considering of her suffering. At least, her ideology was broken while she meets Augustus and how sad Hazel, knowing Augustus dies.

The second main character is Augustus Waters, he is a 16-year-old boy with cancer too. Augustus becomes Hazel's boyfriend. He is a boy with romantic gestures and falls in love with Hazel after he meets her at a support group for cancer in Indianapolis. Augustus is a confident, funny and handsome boy. He likes to be heroic and strong. He is also a boy in Indianapolis who used to be a basketball player and now he could not play basketball anymore because of his cancer. He is afraid about forgotten by the world forever, so he wanted to make something great for the world to remember his existence. It is dramatically different with Hazel's thought. "I fear oblivion...I fear it like the proverbial blind man who's afraid of the dark." (Green, 2012:12).

The third strength that the writer found in this novel is symbol. Symbol is something that represents the theme for this novel. Meyer states "A symbol is something that represents something else, an object, person, place, event or action can suggest more than its literal meaning"(1990:581). The writer found that water could be a symbol in this novel. Water in The Fault in Our Stars represents suffering in two aspects. They are negative and positive aspects. Water, for negative aspect, represents the liquid that flocks in Hazel's lungs as a consequence of her cancer. This water or liquid makes Hazel a big of suffering in the story. This situation forces her to use an oxygen helper and portable tank and bounds her capabilities to do any serious or hard activities. This type of suffering is negative. It is important that water is also Augustus's last name, Waters. Augustus Waters is Hazel's love in the story, and the recur of his cancer makes Hazel hold a strong of suffering. Hazel loves him so much, which makes it a pain in positive aspect. It is a symbol she feels. She is suffering from water, but she loves Water, too.

The last strength is setting of place. Nurgiyantoro states, "Latartempatmenyaranpadalokasiterjadinyaperistiwa yang diceritakandalamsebuahkaryafiksi" (1995:227), it means that the setting of place refers to the location where the events are recounted in the work of fiction. Indianapolis and Amsterdam are the places where the events are recounted in this novel. The reason why the writer chooses this aspect because the setting of place is related with the symbol of water in the previous paragraph. Water represents the liquid that flocks in Hazel's lungs as an effect of her cancer. Water also represents Augustus's last name, Waters. The location in the novel also related with water. It is important that the two locations in the novel, Amsterdam and Indianapolis are canal cities. Amsterdam especially threatened of being flooded by the waters around, as well as Hazel's body, and her lungs.

...I straightened my back to see the Netherlands. The land seemed sunk into the ocean, little rectangles of green surrounded on all sides by canals.

We landed, in fact, parallel to a canal, like there were two runaways: one for us and one for waterfowl. (Green, 2012:153)

A novel also has a weakness behind its strength. The writer will write down a weakness about The Fault in Our Stars by John Green. John Green is a male author who writes a female character as point of view. “Point of view is the position in which the narrator stands in relation to the story; the standpoint from which events are narrated.” (Hicks and Hutching, 1989:113). Hazel Grace Lancaster is the main female character as well as the narrator of this novel. In fact, men and women have different perspective, nature, social experiences or each gender problems, so the writing of male and female authors will be different, too. The writer believes that male authors are unable to write accurately if they think to writes the female point of view, because they have not experienced life as women since they were born, their lives should be different. The writer thinks that the role of Hazel would be better if the author is a female or John Green just write the original story and a female friend who made the characterization in the novel. The writer is sure it would be much nicer to read, especially for the female readers. Writing across gender should be harder, require more research and humility. Of course, John Green has done a lot of research and do his best in this case, but we hope that as more research is done on male authors who write from the female point of view.

4. Conclusion

The Fault in Our Stars by John Green is a novel that shows a love story between two kids suffering from cancer. The novel has some strengths that make it a good reading. The writer uses intrinsic elements in analyzing the strengths and weakness. Strength points of this novel are the theme, character/characterization, symbol, and setting of places that related with the symbol. While the weakness of this novel is a male author who writes a female character as point of view. Although the book has a weakness in point of view, but like the other good strengths in the novel, overall, the book is highly recommended to read.

The writer believes the book provides some very powerful lessons if the readers can see through the pain of the story. There are some situations Hazel and Augustus cannot escape like their struggles with cancer. They have no power over the situation itself, but they do have the power to decide how they respond to it. As people waste their breath complaining about life, someone out there is struggling to live and breathing the last breath. So, the book teaches the readers that the human should appreciate their lives.

REFERENCES

Card, Orson Scott. 1988. Characters and Viewpoint. Cincinnati: Writer's Digest Books

Green, John. 2012. The Fault in Our Stars. United States: Dutton Books

Hicks, Malcom and Hutching. 1989. Literary Criticism: A Practical Guide for Students. United States: Edward Arnold.

Meyer, Michael. 1990. The Bedford Introduction to Literature. Boston: Bedford Martin's Press.

Nurgiyantoro, Burhan. 2015. Teori Pengkajian Fiksi. Yogyakarta: Gajah Mada University Press.

Green, John. "About John Green". Accessed: 27 June 2016

<<http://www.johngreenbooks.com/bio/>>

Perrine, Laurence. 1988. Literature. New York. HancourtBranche Jovanovich