NOTE

In this international seminar on Language Maintenance and Shift 7 (LAMAS 7 for short), we try to do the new paradigm, that is publishing the proceeding after the seminar was held. The positive aspect of the paradigm is that the presenters of the seminar have opportunity to revise their paper based on the responses of the audience. However, it takes longer time to process the proceeding until it is ready to distribute. Therefore, we apologize for being late.

In this opportunity, we would like to extent our deepest gratitude to Balai Bahasa Jawa Tengah for continuously cooperation in conducting the seminar. Thanks also go to the Dean of the Faculty of Humanities, the Head and the Secretary of the Master Program in Linguistics Diponegoro University, without whom the seminar would not have been possible. We would also express our special thanks to committee for putting together the seminar that gave rise to this compilation of papers.

We would like to thank Mrs. Shu-Chuan Chen, Ph.D. from Asia University Taiwan, Dr. Tupas Topsie Ruanni, from National Institute of Education Singapore, Drs, Pardi M.Hum. from Balai Bahasa Jawa Tengah; Prof. Ketut Artawa, Ph.D. from Udayana University, and Dr. Suharno, M.Ed. from Diponegoro University, as invited speakers in plenary sessions, and to all of the participants of the seminar.

Semarang, September, 25th 2017

The Board of Editor in LAMAS

Abstract

Google Maps is web-mapping service developed by Google. It provides a satellite imagery, street maps, street 360°-views, Google traffic (real-time conditions), and route-planning. One of many Google Maps features is it allows the users to give a rating, add some photos and leave a review of some places where they might ever visited or have few information about the places. By sharing some information about some particular places on review such as hotel, tourist sites, stores, restaurant, etc. it can help people who intend to visit the places to get information about it. By this article, the writer aims to find out the language used by the Google Maps users particularly, Indonesian local guides in giving the review of some particular places. Do they use their native language, Indonesian or even foreign language? Therefore, the scopes of this writing cover: 1) classification of the local guides based on the language used to give review in Google Maps 2) analyzing the language used by local guides. The data of the article is limited only a hundred Indonesian Local Guides, chosen randomly and by the numbers, it obtained 6319 reviews. The writer would use the data from some reviews on Google Maps. The steps would take to reveal all issues in this paper as follows: 1) collecting and reducing the data by listing a hundred Indonesian Local Guides, 2) identifying the reviews given based on the language that is used, whether it is frequently in Indonesian, English or even native language; 3) analyzing the language used based on its content, and 4) concluding all the findings. It can be concluded that mostly, ILGs use English to review various places on Maps. They have tendency to write in English for possibly particular reasons. Some public places are often being reviewed using English, even it is certain that majority of people who are looking for some information from Maps are local people (Indonesian). Some reviews written by ILGs do not completely provide information about the details of the place.

INTRODUCTION

It now becomes familiar for most people that global communication spread through online media. After a numbers of giant social media platform like Facebook and twitter become someone's everyday need, online communication grows and evolves through other platforms that are basically not as a means of online communication. For example, Instagram is a medium for sharing photos, now the platform has turned for not only record the memories of certain events, but also become a medium for business. The main issue of the writing is, the writer would pay particular attention to a well-known platform developed by Google, and it is Google Maps.

Google Maps is web-mapping service developed by Google. It provides a satellite imagery, street maps, street 360°-views, Google traffic (real-time conditions), and route-planning. One of many Google Maps features is it allows the users to give a rating, add some photos and leave a review of some places where they might ever visited or have few information about the places. By sharing some information about some particular places on review such as hotel, tourist sites, stores, restaurant, etc. it can help people who intend to visit the places to get information about it.

Once, the users contribute content to maps by rating, reviewing or sharing pictures and knowledge about a specific place, Maps will offer them to join Local Guides. Being a Local Guide, is not only capable of rating, reviewing and sharing photographs, but also allowed to add a missing place, edit a place, answer questions to provide insights and check the facts. Local Guides will earn points as they contribute to the Maps. The more a local guide earn the points, the higher level they achieve.

However, the basic language of this application, as mostly social media, is notably English. Accordingly, it would encourage the Local Guides, particularly Indonesia Local Guides to be able to understand and use English. Indonesian Local Guides (ILG) have an important role in enriching information of certain places in Indonesia. However, the challenge of the language, which used is another issue. It is presumably for the ILGs to use English due to many reasons including, they expect more readers can easily understand what they share (write/review). Yet, it needs to be considered that most readers, people who seek for the details of places in particularly Indonesia are Indonesians. This issue, more or less can lead to the language shift among the users. Thus, by this present writing, the writer aims to find out the language used by Indonesian Local Guides in giving the review of some particular places. Do they use their native language, Indonesian or even foreign language?

There were some previous articles discussed the similar issues. First, Karjo (2015) addressed the impacts of social media towards language shift among the students of university. The result of investigation showed that language shift occurred in daily communication to social media communication, the students were assumed to be confident to use English than Indonesian. Besides, the shift had significant effect on written than oral communication. Later, Nirmala (2015) conducted the investigation on students' attitudes towards Javanese language. In sum, the students have positive attitudes, although Javanese language experiences some changes, particularly in the level of casual speech event, which tends to be in informal domain.

The present article relates to the language maintenance. The writer tends to reveal how far the effort of ILGs in maintaining their local language or Indonesian. On the other hand, it is certain that mostly Indonesian are bilingualism, they speak their local language, such as Sundanese or Javanese, also speak Indonesian as national language. The challenge is recently that English is escalating into many aspects of everyday life. English is used everywhere and people love and seem proud to use it. It can govern a language shift. Holmes (2001:58-59) stated that the case of bilingualism can be a necessary sign of language shift, even though, as stable diglossic communities demonstrate, it does not always result in language shift. Meanwhile, it seems that the community sees no reason to take active steps to maintain their local language.

Moreover, Skutnabb-Kangas (1984:90) mentioned there are some factors in defining bilingual, such as origin of language, cognitive competence, level of proficiency, function also attitude. Based on the view, related to the language used by the ILGs, it is influenced, probably the function and the proficiency of the language. They view that the choice of language is based on its function, as a mean of communication, has to be able to reach all readers. Second, their ability of using the chosen language is considered as the factor why ILGs prefers to use a particular language to others.

RESEARCH METHOD

As previously mentioned, the investigation is led by two main aims, the first, classification of the local guides based on the language used to give review in Google Maps. Second, analyzing the content of the language used by local guides. Therefore, the objects of the investigation are the ILGs and their language (in form of review). The steps would take to reveal all issues in this paper as follows:

- 1) Collecting and reducing the data by listing a hundred Indonesian Local Guides;
- 2) Identifying the reviews given based on the language that is used, whether it is frequently in Indonesian, English or even native language;
- 3) Analyzing the language used based on its content; and
- 4) Concluding all the findings.

Participants

The investigation are administered to a hundred Indonesian Local Guides, chosen randomly based on the certain places being reviewed in application, limited only reviewed places in Indonesia, particularly West Java. The ILGs were taken from various level, level 4 – level 7, because in that levels, each local guides were expected, at least has twenty places or more being reviewed. Hence, it can be found several of language they used. The descriptive characteristic of the participants are presented in the following table.

Table 1 Participants' Demographics

Characteristic	Number of participants
Level 4	13
Level 5	46
Level 6	37
Level 7	4

Instruments

From a hundred participants, the writer recorded, there were 6319 ILG's reviews of various places on mobile Google Maps

Places

The places were being reviewed including, restaurants, hotels, malls, minimarkets, gas stations, train stations, supermarkets, schools, tourist attractions (zoos, art galleries, museums, beaches, monuments, mountains, valleys), car repair service, universities, English courses, tax office, police office, hospitals, libraries, cinemas, factory outlets, swimming pools, hospitals, airports, ATMs, courier service, mosques, churches and rest areas.

DISCUSSION*Language Used by Indonesia Local Guides

As the analysis of the data has been conducted, the following table would summarize the result of investigation.

The writer expected that the number of ILGs who use Indonesian are bigger than those who use English, in fact, according to the chart above, from a hundred ILGs, there were 55 ILGs whose reviews use English more than Indonesian, 27 ILGs using completely English over Indonesian and only 18 ILGs using Indonesian more than English. Moreover, there were 6319 total review from a hundred ILGs, from the number only 1497 reviews (18%) in Indonesian. On the contrary, there were 4822 reviews (82%) using English. In fact, there is no way to contact the local guides, to find out their reason using English over Indonesian.

Table 2 Numbers of Reviews

Total Numbers of Reviews	Numbers of Reviews using English	Numbers of Reviews using Indonesian
6319	4822	1497

Based on the result above, the issues of language maintenance among the ILGs could be findings and further deliberations as our effort to maintenance local language or even Indonesian. The fact, that more ILGs would rather use English better than Indonesian, become a big question why this could occur. Some speculations behind their choice of language could be the possibility of them to practice their English ability, as aforementioned it relates to the function of bilingualism. Furthermore, they presumably believe that by using English it can help and reach more people who access Google Maps for searching some information. In fact, that the majority of the readers itself is Indonesian who using Indonesian does not affect them to use Indonesian.

In addition, the writer found some public places, for example, local gas station, minimarkets, hospitals, police offices and even traditional food stalls were often being reviewed using English. In fact, it is certain that majority of people who visit the places and who are looking for some information of the places on Google Maps are local people who notably use Indonesian. It possibly occurred due to their purposes to escalate their proficiency in using English.

CONCLUSION

Based on the findings above, it can be concluded, Mostly, ILGs use English to review various places on Maps. They have tendency to write in English for POSSIBLY particular reasons, such as practicing their writing skills using English, they believe by using English it can help and reach more people (foreign tourists). Some public places (gas stations, food stalls, minimarkets, hospitals, etc.) are often being reviewed using English, even it is certain that majority of people who are looking for some information from Maps are local people (Indonesian). Some reviews written by ILGs do not completely provide information about the details of the place. Some of them only write their own experiences or only give pretty short review (Nice, OK, good place).
