

PENEGAKAN HUKUM DALAM MASYARAKAT PLURALISTIK

Suparno

Abstrak

The existence of law in society is a fact. Many society activities need law in providing legal certainty. Through law many interests relationship in society is not social relationship but to be legal relationship. In modern era, the legal administration and enforcement should be uniform in such state area. But in Indonesia, that characterized by pluralistic society, that uniformity of law could be a repression by law, that could not be accommodated legal feeling of society like customary law, unwritten law, etc. In the future in facing plurality society like Indonesia, it should be taken into consideration some legal feeling that existed in society in order to prevent the repressive law enforcement.
